Upon returning, he rejoined the Hudson's Bay Company and became a fisherman stationed at Fort Simpson. See Rae's Arctic Correspondence, 1844-1845, Hudson's Bay Record Society, Vol. XVI (E.E.Rich, editor); Appendix B, p.#375; also: B.200/d/97a (Fort Simpson Account Book, 1849-1850).

“Jerome Laporte at Good Hope I expect is dead by this time, so no pension is required in this case. He has been 60years in the Service, but I have not renewed his contract, but allow him to remain at the Fort for the short time he has to live.” (J.S.Camsell to J.Wrigley; Fort Chipewyan, Aug.7, 1890; B.200/b/39; Vol. III, fo.641)

Son: Jerome St.George dit Laporte “B”; also employed by the Hudson's Bay Company at Fort Good Hope. He was married and had two children. (See: Rae's Arctic Correspondence, 1844-1845, Hudson's Bay Record Society, Vol. XVI; Appendix B, p.#375)
